RE: MEDINA V. AMTRAK
19 Civ. 2267 (ER)

Dear Judge Ramos:

This office represents the plaintiff in the above referenced action. Plaintiff writes in response to the court's order dated November 16, 2020. More specifically, counsel offers the following explanation for the difficulties in moving forward with this litigation.

Since the onset of the pandemic a little over eight (8) months ago, Ms. Medina has been difficult to contact. Despite several attempts, counsel has been unable to communicate with Ms. Medina. More to the point, only in the last 48 hours counsel has finally been able to learn from Ms. Medina that she has made proverbial lemonade out of the lemons she had after being fired by Amtrak. She went back to school, pursued a degree and found a new job.

Ms. Medina and I agreed to speak again within the NEXT 48 hours to discuss her desire to pursue this litigation. At issue is holding Amtrak accountable versus burdening the Court and counsel with the time and effort to make that possible. More basically, Ms. Medina is determining whether to let her past be bygones, i.e. whether to let bygones be bygones.

Succinctly, plaintiff's counsel will either serve responses to defendant's discovery demands or tender a stipulation of dismissal by November 30, 2020.

Respectfully submitted,
